

Jennifer Neundorfer on how AI is reshaping the way startups are built — live at TechCrunch All Stage

AI marks the most significant revolution in startup development since the advent of cloud computing. This isn't just an incremental change; AI is fundamentally reshaping every facet of company building, from the initial spark of idea validation and the intricate process of product development to the critical areas of team structuring and go-to-market strategies.

Jennifer Neundorfer, co-founder and managing partner at January Ventures, unpacks the new rules of engagement for the AI era, offering essential insights for the next generation of founders at every stage. Catch her at TechCrunch All Stage on July 15 at Boston's SoWa Power Station.
