invested. There were also strong gains in investment across several sectors and UK regions compared to last year.

Comparing year-on-year there has been an even sharper decline in both deal number and amount since Q1 2024. Given the 8.6% year-on-year decline in capital investment announced in our annual report, The Deal 2024, it is not surprising that this downward momentum has continued into 2025.

“Investor caution, tighter capital conditions globally, and a shift toward risk-adverse investments are reshaping the landscape.”

It may be that we need to get used to seeing fewer deals and less investment across the UK overall, and ask ourselves: is this the new normal?
